

Where does the money remain?

For one week, enter into the respective columns what you use your money for. The notes are only for you and will serve as basis for the subsequent work in the group. Add more columns that you feel are necessary for you.

Leisure	Music	Games/ Downloads	Hobbies	Clothes	Computer	Eating & drinking	Sweets & Co.	Presents	Mobile phone		Weekly expenses
												Total expenses

Is there money left at the end of the week or at the end of a month?

If so, what do you do with it - spend or save?

Do you save money for a certain goal?

If so, how do you save?

- Saving tin*
 Saving book
 I leave my money at the current account
 Saving contract
 Other

Evaluation

Evaluate the table under the following aspects

Write down how much you spent this week in total.

Form the sum of the expenditure groups.

Calculate your expenses as a percentage of the expenditure groups.

What is your income-spending ratio? (If there is still money left over? Have you spent more and borrowed money?)

What extraordinary expenses or revenue did you have?

How much have you saved?

Was it easy or difficult you like to write down the expenses on a regular basis?