

My bilingual children

Cut out the cards. Decide if each card is true or false and put them with the True or False cards.

True

Parents should use their home language to help children with homework.

False

Parents must practise their English at home with their children.

Bilingual children do not understand how other people feel.

Bilingual children are more creative than monolingual children.

Bilingual children understand how language works.

Bilingual children are better at maths.

Bilingual children are not good at English tests.

Being bilingual helps children to be more intelligent.

True	False
Parents should use their home language to help children with homework. 	Parents must practise their English at home with their children.
Bilingual children are more creative than monolingual children. 	Bilingual children do not understand how other people feel.
Bilingual children understand how language works. 	Bilingual children are not good at English tests.
Being bilingual helps children to be more intelligent.
Bilingual children are better at maths.

Teachers' note: For more information about bilingualism and more resources for teaching parents about bilingualism, please request a free pdf copy of the Learning Unlimited Family Skills Toolkit - <https://www.learningunlimited.co/projects/family-skills/family-skills-toolkit>

